Kevin represents clients in all aspects of patent law. He works on a broad spectrum of technologies in the biotechnological, pharmaceutical and medical device arts.

"It is a rare occurrence that I include outside counsel in internal discussions with the scientific teams at the company," said Bradley E. Davis, in-house counsel at a major pharmaceutical company, "but Kevin's sophistication in the chemical arts and his creativity in leveraging his deep understanding of patent law made him a respected and invaluable asset to the scientific team."
