Is the Pendulum Swinging Back to Favor Policyholders for COVID-19 Business Interruption Losses?

Insurance Policyholder attorneys Angela Elbert and Paul Walker-Bright recently authored the article "Is the Pendulum Swinging Back to Favor Policyholders for COVID-19 Business Interruption Losses?," published by Law.com's Insurance Coverage Law Center. Angela and Paul discuss how early COVID-19 business interruption cases are not a good indicator of coverage rulings compared to more recent cases, and how state appellate courts will ultimately decide the coverage issues.
